Dear Parents,

Blue Whale Challenge (BWC) has emerged as the latest cyber threat to the young generation in the form of a game which is controlled by a controller sitting at a remote location. The controller of BWC takes advantages of the natural curiosity among youngsters to incite them to take up daily tasks in the form of a game. Regular tasks offered through this game lead ultimately to a last task in which the gamer has to give up his/her life. If the user wishes to back out, he/she is threatened by the controller of the game that failure to complete the task would bring harm to them or their loved ones.

Students who are emotionally insecure, introvert, depressed, impulsive in nature ,detached from family & friends, restless, agitated, having low self esteem, fatigued/lack of energy & interest are more vulnerable to such threats and hence need special attention/care in the schools as well as at home.

Therefore, in order to fully ensure the safety and security of your ward school deems its duty to request you to take following precautions:-

- Regularly watch for any signs of cuts/injuries/bruises on child's body.
- Spend more time with your kids and try to get involved in their day to day activities.
- Utilize their pent up energy in creative ways.
- Give unconditional acceptance to the child so that the child feels comfortable in telling everything happening in his/her lives.
- Make the child feel wanted, important and loved.
- Be vigilant about the activities or games the child indulges in on internet including social media.
- In case you observe any odd behavior of your child, or change in daily routine and habits, irritation etc you must talk with him/her or take help of any psychologist.
