Dear Parents

Greeting!

The corona virus outbreak has led to school closures and social containment measures around the world. As a result, children are spending more time online, as families rely on digital technology to learn, socialize, and stay connected with the outside world.

While the internet has proven to be a valuable lifeline during this crisis, allowing different aspects of life to continue, the issue of online safety for kids has increased in importance. With schools closed and many parents working from home, children are more likely to be using the internet unsupervised.

The internet spaces are growing & multiplying and data security, privacy and protection is inadequate to keep a check on this, it is important that everyone is aware of the risk that could be associated with being connected to the internet. In addition, the students need to be warned against these risks and it is extremely important for us to ensure that every possible step is taken towards giving our children safe spaces to learn that keep their innocence and cater to their curiosity in non – harmful way.

NCERT and UNESCO have jointly developed guidelines on SAVE ONLINE LEARNING IN TIMES OF COVID – 19 for sensitization of students & parents. The same could be accessed the below given link:
